CHINESE COUPLE, THROWING HOT WATER AND THREATENING TO BLOW UP PLANE, FORCE RETURN TO BANGKOK

Posted: 12/12/2014 2:09 pm

Raucous behavior by some Chinese passengers on-board a Thai airliner from Bangkok to Nanjing resulted in some tense moments for passengers and a return to Don Mueang Airport in the Thai capital.

Witnesses on Air Asia flight 9101 say a man threatened to blow up the plane and his girlfriend told other passengers she wanted to commit suicide, which led to the decision to turn around. But the couple, in their 20s, had been drawing attention to themselves for a while by that point.

The couple loudly objected when they discovered they were not sitting together, which happened because they were part of a tour group and were seated in alphabetical order. A flight attendant fixed the situation and found seats for them together, but they still complained loudly.

Then in flight, the woman bought a bowl of instant noodles from the flight attendants and asked for boiling water. When she got it, she splashed it on the flight attendant.

During the fracas that followed, the man threatened to blow up the plane as his girlfriend threatened to kill herself. Passengers say dinner cutlery was used in the melee. The couple finally calmed down once other passengers became involved.

After arriving back in Bangkok, police entered the plane and took the couple away.

Airasia bad airline of the world.

and China's chinese are bad airline passengers in the world.

"Incidents involving Chinese tourists making angry outbursts have prompted Beijing to issue stern guidelines on behaving abroad.

In February, according to Thai and Chinese news reports, 27 members of a Chinese tour group were ejected from a China Eastern Airlines flight before take-off from the Thai resort island of Phuket after brawling over seating arrangements."

p/s: not related to HK chinese or Taiwan chinese, I believe they are good.

Where did the boiling water come from? There is no such thing on any commercial airline.

I worked on airplanes for 36 years and know for a fact that there is no such thing on an airplane. Don't be so know it all.

shun
have you work on the commercial aircraft like 737/a320/777/a30 etc? you should know there it is

So how the cabin crew serve you hot coffee or tea without hot water? there are water heater at the galley. So the cabin crew took the hot water from there, puts on the trolley and serve to any passenger who ask for hot drinks.
